Oscar Wilde and the Metaphysics of Sound

Giorno: 13 febbraio 2023

Location: online, Zoom

Ora: 18-19 (CET)

Kimberly J. Stern is Associate Professor and Director of Graduate Studies at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She completed a critical edition of Oscar Wilde's controversial play Salome (Broadview Press) in 2015, which was followed by an intellectual biography, Oscar Wilde: A Literary Life, published by Palgrave in 2019. Her teaching and scholarly interests include several broad fields of inquiry, including women's writing, the novel, aesthetic theory, drama, and the British fin de siècle.

Her favourite happy hour drink is a glass of red wine (Dolcetto or Sangiovese) during winter; alternatively, she usually drinks an IPA when it is not too cold.
